

SB#789 Online Payment Platform & Intellectual Property

Building an online payment platform? This company has already built out the ideal turnkey technology platform, intellectual property, with established banking integration relationships. This multi-faceted online payment platform is the perfect IP acquisition play, enabling an embedded or standalone payment solution across a marketplace or online community, where time to market is essential.

The modern technology components are fully developed, tested, and ready for market. A wallet app, built in Flutter, functions as the consumer-facing component, which is customizable to fit any branding requirement. The wallet app is already live on Apple and Google app stores. Seller is willing to provide 80 hours of expertise on integration requirements, included with purchase.

The Customer Management System handles all back-end payment related processes; while the Merchant Platform handles payments to and from users within a tight-knit community, marketplace, or gaming environment. These components are built with MERN Stack.

Strategic integrations are pre-established for turnkey support and rollout in US and Canadian markets. A full set of APIs allows for an extensible solution, as necessary.

Ideal technology acquisition opportunity for a young online payment platform breaking into the North American market, where time to market is critical. A SaaS software company looking to integrate a built-in payment solution would benefit from these modular components. Similarly, this IP acquisition is the perfect strategic fit for an online gaming venture, or any online marketplace that requires a closely integrated payment approach, along with a branded wallet for constituents, and integration to back-end infrastructure.
